The House of Mystery

By

WILL IRWIN

Here is a love-story of unusual quality,—and a gripping mystery tale of dramatic climax.

There have been a good many mystery stories published lately but you will hardly find a better one than this.

The Greatest Travel Book You Ever Read

There never was such a good travel book as this.

The writer worked his way around the world, and lived close to the people all the time.

The author lived with French tramps, Arabs, low-caste Indians, and all sorts of people everywhere.

THREE NOTABLE SPRING NOVELS

Mrs. Atherton's new novel

Third Edition

TOWER OF IVORY

"Ordham and Margarethe Styr are persons conceived and presented with extraordinary clearness and power. One does not doubt that the bond which unites them . . . is the supreme bond which has linked the great lovers of all time."—The Nation.

"Brilliantly written especially are the pages of description of life on the Isar, the music world, the musical idiosyncrasies of the mad king of Bavaria, above all, the sound dramatic criticism of Wagner . . . a masterpiece."

—Record-Herald, Chicago.

AN INTERRUPTED FRIENDSHIP

Mrs. Voynich has that wonderful power of all writers of great fiction, the ability to make a wholly imaginary character so alive that its insistent vitality strongly impresses the memory as few actually do even among remarkable personalities. That unforgettable victim of evil fate "The Gadfly," who reappears in the latter part of this new book, is a case in point.

READY NEXT WEEK

A MODERN CHRONICLE

The author of "Richard Carvel," "The Crisis," "Coniston," etc., is making a new departure in that the leading character of "A Modern Chronicle" is a woman instead of as heretofore in his novels a man. Imagine a girl of the finest American type full of the sensitive Southern passion in pleasure or pain, educate her as daughters of the South were trained in social charm twenty years ago; give her a year at the fashionable boarding school; and let her marry "a Wall Street man." Then you will have the opening elements of an absorbing novel to which you may surrender yourself for a long day of assured content.

THE GODPARENTS

By Grace Sartwell Mason

Author of "The Car and the Lady"

How a very pretty and very determined American girl is hurried from the steamer just before sailing by a strange young man with a strange purpose. How the pair camp out in the Alleghany mountains in quest of a headstrong little orphan boy—their godson—and how, after three idyllic weeks, they find him, is the plot of this delightful summer romance, which is full of engaging humor and unusual situations.

As a love story it is unconventional and sincere; as a story of the delight of outdoor life in the woods, it will appeal irresistibly to all men and women alike who boast of a trout rod and duffle bag among their possessions. Illustrated by F. Vaux Wilson. $1.10 net. Postpaid $1.19.

Ex-President William J. Tucker's PERSONAL POWER

Suggestive and stimulating addresses to college men by one of the foremost American educators, the former President of Dartmouth College. Dr. Tucker is well and favorably known to the public at large, and this book should make a wide appeal. $1.50 net. Postpaid $1.62.

Edwin T. Brewster's SWIMMING

For any one who wants to learn to swim, to swim better, or to teach some one else to swim, this compact and well-arranged little handbook will be of unique helpfulness. With frontispiece photograph of Annette Kellerman and diagrams. $1.00 net. Postpaid $1.10.

Poppy

The Story of a South African Girl

By CYNTHIA STOCKLEY With Frontispiece. $1.35 net

Like the flower for which she was named, Poppy reveals a wild, fresh individuality,—not a banal, neutral-tinted product of the garden.

The author is an artist; she sets before us a strong personality, strongly influenced for good and bad by its environment, and she has stopped at nothing to make her picture live.

NOTES IN SEASON.

JAMES POTT & Co. will publish April 1 "In the Days of the Georges," by A. B. Boulton; and "Cathedrals and Churches of Belgium," by T. Francis Bumpus.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY will publish during April another book by Ellis Parker Butler, to be called "The Water Goats and Other Troubles." It will contain three stories—"The Water Goats," "Mr. Billings' Pockets" and "Our First Burglar."

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY publish to-day the new novel, "By Disinheritance," by Octave Thanet, the author of "The Man of the Hour." It is a novel of the South, a story full of action and color and said to be the author's best work.

THE following books are published to-day by Houghton Mifflin Co.: "The Godparents," a novel of outdoor life by Mrs. Grace Sartwell Mason; "Personal Power," a volume of essays and addresses by former President William J. Tucker, of Dartmouth College; a little handbook on "Swimming," by Edwin T. Brewster; and a study of "English Literature in Account with Religion," by Edward M. Chapman, author of "The Dynamic of Christianity."

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S new novel, "A Modern Chronicle," is to be published on March 30. This story is of an entirely different nature, both in subject and treatment, from any of his previous books. The most important character is a woman—Honora Leffingwell—and Honora is as splendid a representation of her sex as his male heroes of the past have been of theirs. The scene of "A Modern Chronicle" is laid largely in a suburb in the vicinity of New York City. The time is the present. The book is profusely illustrated by J. H. Gardner Soper.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS report "The Rosary," by Florence Barclay, which they published some four months ago, has already reached the eighth large impression. "The House of the Whispering Pines," by Anna Katharine Green, which was published only a few weeks ago, has attained its fourth large impression. "Poppy," by Cynthia Stockley, which they expect to publish to-day has, in advance of publication, inspired so much confidence in the booktrade that already they have had to make two large impressions of the novel to meet the current demand.

D. APPLETON & Co. are to be congratulated on having their imprint on Sir Harry Johnston's exhaustive work on "George Grenfell and the Congo," a history and description of the Congo Independent States and adjoining districts of Congoland, together with some account of the native peoples and their languages, the fauna and flora, and similar notes on the Cameroons and the Island of Fernando Pô, founded on the diaries and researches of the late Rev. George Grenfell, a work in two volumes, with illustrations of great importance. The Appletons have also ready "The Real Francis Joseph," by Henri de Weindel; "Queen Christina of Sweden," by I. A. Taylor; and "Travel and Sport in Turkestan," by Captain Price Wood.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish the coming week three of their most important spring novels. "The Heart of Desire," an intensely dramatic and appealing novel of to-day, with a California setting, by Elizabeth Dejeans, author of "The Winning Chance," which novel created a decided impression when published last spring; "Routledge Rides Alone," by Will Levington Comfort, a stirring novel of love and war by a rising young author who spent ten years as a war correspondent in Cuba, the Philippines, India and Manchuria at the time of the Russo-Japanese War; and "Raleigh," a sparkling romance of Elizabeth's Court, founded by William Devereux and Stephen Lovell upon their successful play, "Sir Walter Raleigh."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Alldrige, T: Joshua. A transformed colony: Sierra Leone as it was and as it is; its progress, peoples, native customs and undeveloped wealth; with 66 il. from photographs and a map. Phil., Lippincott, 1910. 16+17-362 p. O. cl., *$3.50 net.

Sierra Leone is a British colony on the west coast of Africa, where the author held an English government position for thirty years, during many of which he was the only white man known in the Upper Mendi country. His descriptions of the native customs and practices of that time are contrasted with those that now prevail, Mr. Alldrige having recently revisited Sierra Leone and finding civilization advancing steadily. He also describes the ethnological and official work of others.

Allen, Philip Schuyler, ed. Herein! first German readings; il. by Julie C. Pratt. N. Y., Henry Holt & Co., 1910. c. 8+289 p. map, D. cl., 70 c.

Simple readings which employ idiomatic German and maintain in subject and treatment a German atmosphere. The words employed are those constantly in use in speech and writing. Editor is associate professor of German literature in the University of Chicago.

Apollonius of Rhodes. Apollonii Rhodii Argonautica; recognovit brevique adnotatione critica instruxit R. C. Seaton. [N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,) 1910.] no paging, D. (Scriptorum classicorum bibliotheca Oxoniensis.) cl., $1.

Armstrong, E. Frankland. The simple carbohydrates and the glucosides. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1910. 9+112 p. O. (Monographs on biochemistry; ed. by R. H. Anders Plimmer.) cl., *$1.20 net.

The last decade has seen such material progress in our knowledge of the carbohydrates that it is almost impossible to keep books on the subject up-to-date. Most of the material bearing on carbohydrates is scattered through periodicals, and it is to bring this information together that Mr. Armstrong has written this book. Bibliography (18 p.). Index.

Atoned, adapted from the German by the Rev. L. A. Rendter, [and] The two Christ-mas eves. Techny, Ill., Society of the Divine Word, [1910.] 238 p. S. cl., 50 c.

The first story is of an honest young man who is made to suffer by hostile relatives. The second tale is of a young man who falls through evil companions and is brought back to a good life.

Atwater, Joshua. Atwater's American farmer's figurer, enlarged. Peoria, Ill., Atwater Publishing House, [1910.] c. 240 p. por. 12°, cl., 50 c.; hf. leath., 75 c.; leath., $1.

Bailey, Liberty Hyde. Manual of gardening; a practical guide to the making of home grounds and the growing of flowers, fruits and vegetables for home use. N. Y., Macmillan, 1910. c. 16+539 p. D. cl., **$2 net.

A combination and revision of the main parts of the other two books, together with much new material and results of the experiences of ten added years. The botanical nomenclature of this book is that of "The cyclopedia of American horticulture," edited by the author, who gives sound and tested advice, together with questions and suggestions from correspondents. Facts have been studied chiefly in the northeastern states.

Beginning with the return of the Poverello from the Holy Land, it gives the narrative of his life with his companions, upon whom he had bestowed the title, "The minstrels of God," from that time until his death. Intertwined with the story of the holy man's life is the romance of a young noblewoman and her lover, both of whom, in repentance of their sins, had taken the vows of poverty and God's service. On his deathbed he absolves them from their vows, and tells them they are free to marry.

Batey, J: The motor car and its engine; a practical treatise for motor engineers, including owners and chauffeurs. Phil., George W. Jacobs & Co., 1910. 16°, cl., *$1.50 net.

Poems and short sketches.

Beecroft, W. I., comp. Who's who among the ferns; il. by W. I. Beecroft. N. Y., Moffat, Yard & Co., 1910. c. 19+208 p. D. cl., *$1 net.

A companion volume to "Who's who among the wild flowers," by Mr. Beecroft. Book will enable anyone to determine the identity of a fern without trouble and with a few minutes' work, and this done, to find simply set forth the essential facts about it. It is not intended for the scientific botanist, but for the beginner, or lover of ferns who is not a student. Space is left for original notes under each fern-family described.

Benson, E: Frederic. The fascinating Mrs. Halton; il. by C. Coles Phillips. N. Y.,

Doubleday, Page & Co., 1910. c. 285 p. D. cl., $1.20, fixed.

Mrs. Halton, a young widow just engaged to a man she loves and respects, finds her favorite niece on the eve of making a most unsuitable match. She decides the only thing to prevent it is for her to fascinate the man and show her niece his fickleness. Gives a picture of fashionable London society, and proves that quite a little stock of brains is sometimes stored beneath the tiaras and the coiffures that would seem only to fit empty heads. Throughout "the fascinating Mrs. Halton's" manoeuvres the man she is to marry never doubts her loyalty, though unable to account for her actions.

Berkeley, Frances Campbell, ed. A college course in writing from models; arranged, with introd. and notes. N. Y., Henry Holt & Co., 1910. c. 13+478 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The editor is instructor in English in the University of Wisconsin, and has had much experience in the teaching of freshmen and sophomores. Instead of teaching a number of rules and prohibitions on the subject of good writing, Mr. Berkeley believes in giving the student concrete examples to study, analyze, discuss and imitate. By this method the application of a rule is arrived at by the student himself and becomes a working tool instead of a piece of mental lumber. The book is made up of selections illustrating different kinds of writing, i.e., exposition, description, narration.

Betts, Craven Langstroth. The perfume holder; a Persian love poem. 2d ed. [Hastbrouck Heights, N. J., Craven L. Betts,] 1910. c. 5-53 p. 16°, cl., 50 c.

Bible. Old Testament. The Hebrew prophets for English readers, in the language of the revised version of the English Bible; printed in their poetical form, with headings and brief annotation; ed. by Francis H. Woods and Francis E. Powell. In 4 v. v. 2, Zephaniah, Nahum, Habakkuk and Jeremiah. [N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,)] 1910. 10+240 p. D. cl., 85 c.

First editor is fellow and theological lecturer of St. John's College, Oxford, rector of Bainton, and author of "Faith and science," "The hope of Israel;" the other, late vicar of Sewerby and Grindale, editor of The Unified Gospel.

Bible. New Testament. Gospels. The synoptic Gospels arranged in parallel columns by J. M. Thompson. [N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,)] 1910. 27+161 p. Q. cl., $2.50.

Compiler is Fellow and Dean of Divinity in St. Mary Magdalen College, and Oxford examining chaplain to the Bishop of Gloucester. Text used is that of the Revised Version.

Blakeslee, G. Hubbard, ed. China and the Far East: Clark University lectures. N. Y., Thomas Y. Crowell & Co., [1910.] c. 22+455 p. O. cl., **$2 net.

This is a symposium of authorities on the Far East, the book being a collection of lectures delivered at Clark University and edited by the head of the Department of History. Contents: The position of China in the world of politics, A. C. Coolidge; A sketch of the relations between China and the western world, Chester Holcombe; The need of a distinctive American policy in China, T. F. Millard; America's trade relations with China, J. Foord; The opium problem, its history and present condition, H. Wright; Japan's relation to China, Kan-ichi Asakawa; The awakening of Korea, H. N. Allen; The Japanese administration in Korea, G. T. Ladd, etc.

Bode, Boyd H.: An outline of logic. N. Y., Henry Holt & Co., 1910. 10+324 p. D. cl., $1.

Mr. Bode is professor of philosophy in the University of Illinois. "The aim of this volume is, among other things, to give a concrete discussion of ambiguity, to simplify the study of causal connections, and to treat with greater detail than is usually done the type of inference called circumstantial evidence, the nature of proof, and the postulates of reasoning."—Preface. Index.

Bourne, Gilbert C.: Herbert Spencer and animal evolution; the Herbert Spencer lecture delivered at the Museum on the 2d December, 1909. [N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,)] 1910. 36 p. O. pap., 50 c.

Treatise on fertilizers, their composition and application, with directions as to quantity, etc., to be used for certain crops.

Brainerd, Eleanor Hoyt. The personal conduct of Belinda; il. by G. Brehm. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1910. c. '09. 6+307 p. D. cl., $1.20, fixed.

Belinda, as a teacher of literature in a fashionable school, is forced into taking a party to Europe alone. Some of the young ladies, with their characteristic enthusiasms and love affairs, are of the party. A couple of elderly ladies and a young man, who having by chance seen Belinda, makes up his mind to win her love. That he has been abroad ten times, that his youth is a surprise to her who was expecting a "doddering old gentleman," with other unexpected turns of the tale make most amusing reading.

Bray, Reginald A. The town child; a study of the life of a child in the large cities. Phil., George W. Jacobs & Co., 1910. 12°, cl., **$2 net.

Brewster, Edwin Tenney. Swimming. Bost., Houghton Mifflin Co., 1910. c. 7+95 p. pls. D. cl., **$1 net.

Book gives careful and easily understood directions for learning to swim. It is arranged in a series of lessons, with special warnings against the mistakes commonly made at each point. Breathing is made a special point of, as is also the different method each person will use in swimming, and the consequent necessity of adapting the teaching.

Brown, R. Grant. Half the battle in Burmese; a manual of the spoken language. [N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,)] 1910. 10+149 p. S. cl., $2.

Author is in the Indian Civil Service, Burma. An attempt to apply to an Oriental tongue the scientific methods of teaching languages which are now growing in favor in Europe.

Calvert, Alfred. Shipping office organization, management and accounts; a comprehensive guide to the innumerable details connected with the shipping trade with numerous forms and facsimiles of shipping documents. N. Y., Isaac Pitman & Sons, [1910.] 8+203 p. O. cl., $2.

Explains and illustrates the routine in connection with the exportation of goods by a shipping merchant.

Carey, Wymond. Love, the judge; front. by G. Brehm. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1910. c. 336 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A slightly intricate plot introduces six characters of distinct individuality. The hero is a successful financier, engrossed in business, self-made and self-confident. When he is ready to marry he meets two women, one of whom he had known before, when she was rich and he poor, and she had helped him with money and encouragement. Another woman almost wins him for his ignorance of women's ways is great. There are business complications and plots. The point is that "mercy must temper justice," and always does when "Love is judge."

Leckie, Rev. J. H. Authority in religion. [N. Y., Scribner, (imported,)] 1909, [1910.] 10+238 p. O. cl., *$2 net.

"Authority in religion has an ultimate something beyond which neither observation nor reasoning can carry us; something, therefore, that is to be accepted as the starting-point of all theory, the basis of all rational construction. This ultimate is the communion of the soul with God." This is the conclusion of the author to the proving of which the book is devoted.

Lémann, —. Jesus before the Sanhedrim; tr. from the French by Julius Magath. 7th ed. Oxford, Ga., Julius Magath, 1909, [1910.] 165 p. S. cl., 50 c.

A scholarly translation by Professor Magath, of Emory College, Oxford, Ga., of an interesting and instructive book. The author studies the members of the Sanhedrim that sat at the trial of Christ from two points of view—in their individual character and in their acts, and brings strong proof and arguments to substantiate his assertion that the majority of members of this powerful body showed neither piety, uprightness nor moral integrity, and that 27 irregularities were found in their judicial ruling, any one of which would have sufficed to annul the sentence of death which they imposed.

Levi, Ruth. The king's choice; a Purim sketch. N. Y., Bloch Publishing Co., 1910. c. 11 p. D. pap., 15 c.

Mason, Mrs. Grace Startwell. The god-parents. Bost., Houghton Mifflin Co., 1910. c. '09. 236 p. pls. D. cl., **$1.10 net.

How a well-poised young woman just about to sail for her fourteenth summer in Europe was hurried from the steamer by a strange young man, how she went with him to the mountains of Pennsylvania, and, chaperoned by her competent French maid, camped out in the woods for three idyllic weeks, saved a diverting little boy from designing persons, and entered upon a happy love affair, is told in this bright little story. Mrs. Mason is known as the joint author of "The car and the lady."

Meakin, F: Function, feeling, and conduct; an attempt to find a natural basis for ethical law. N. Y., Putnam, 1910. c. 16+276 p. D. cl., **$1.50. net.

A study of the basis and development of morality and the effect of force on the control of conduct, which, though necessary and right, is mainly restrictive or negative. "Our doctrine," the author says, "is at least as old as Aristotle," but the attempt is made to set forth old truths in newer phrase, to piece out certain half truths, and to pave the way for a comprehensive theory of morals, based on psychological and naturalistic grounds. Index.

Metchnikoff, Élie. The prolongation of life; optimistic studies; the English tr. ed. by P. Chalmers Mitchell. Popular ed.; with an introd. by C. S. Minot. N. Y., Putnam, 1910. c. 28+343 p. O. cl., **$1.75 net.

In this work the author expounds, with added light, on the ways of prolonging life, now, he believes, unnaturally short and unnaturally burdened with physical and mental disabilities. He analyzes the causes for such conditions, and offers for the treatment against old age a method of nutrition and hygiene which will diminish the danger from attacks of disease to which people seem particularly liable.

Miss Michelson is the author of "Anthony Overman," "In the bishop's carriage," "The Madigans," etc. This book is made up of four stories—The awakening of Zojas, The cradle, Peach Blossoms, Tares. The first, from which the title is taken, tells of a convicted murderer who drinks a potion which puts him to sleep for one hundred years. When he awakes he plunges into a revolution and achieves power and fame.

Moomaw, B. C. The tank line unlimited; being an account of the wonderful travels of Dr. Seethings. Ridgewood, N. J., Editor Co., 1909, [1910.] c. 2+116 p. 12°, 75 c.

Phillpotts, Eden. The thief of virtue. N. Y., John Lane Co. (The Bodley Head,) 1910. c. 452 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Devonshire is again the scene. At the age of forty the owner of four of the finest farms in the Devon country falls in love with a calculating girl of twenty-two, who for his riches marries him and breaks with her old lover, a shepherd working for others. The men remain good friends. A son is born, hard and calculating like his mother, and all through life he irritates his easy-going, sport-loving father. The secret of his inherited traits is told. The boy's goodness and piety cause his father to call him "a thief of virtue," he has so much more than his share.

Podmore, Frank. Telepathic hallucinations: the new view of ghosts. N. Y., Frederick A. Stokes Co., [1910.] 128 p. il. D. (Twentieth century science ser.) cl., *50 c. net.

By the author of "Mesmerism and Christian science," "The naturalization of the supernatural," etc. Mr. Podmore has here gathered a number of authenticated incidents in which telepathy is the only explanation, when a supernatural agency is discarded as responsible for the happenings. Contents: Some recent ghost stories; Ghosts and hallucinations; The pedigree of telepathy; The experimental basis; Coincident dreams; Spontaneous telepathy; Experimental ghosts; Ghosts of the dead. Index.

Pope, Alexander. Pope's Essay on criticism; ed., with introd. and notes, by J. Sargeant. [N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,)] 1909, [1910.] 15+64 p. D. cl., 50 c.

Mr. Renwick did his travelling in a leisurely way, going from place to place on a motor cycle and stopping where the streams or slopes seemed most alluring or the hospitable people most interesting. He writes of fraternizing with the rural postman, fishing with a little goatherd and discussing local politics, socialism and woman suffrage with the village worthies. A number of pages tell the story of the vendetta and the history of the bandits who formerly flourished on the island. The final chapter, by T. G. Ouston, gives a vigorous picture of Corsican mountain climbing.

Scholefield, Guy H. New Zealand in evolution, industrial, economic and political; with an introd. by the Hon. W. Pember Reeves. N. Y., Scribner, [imported,] 1909, [1910.] 24+363 p. pls. fold. map, O. cl., $3 net.

As a New Zealand journalist the author has been well placed for many years to enable him to study the country and its settlers. In this work he confines himself to the economic history of New Zealand, neglecting the more romantic side of the settlement of the colony, but bringing forward a large amount of statistics and other valuable information hitherto buried in reports, articles, encyclopedias and other places. The rise of New Zealand's industries in wool, timber, mining, refrigeration, dairying, etc., the fluctuations of the market, the political crises and unusual labor legislation are given very fully and in chronological order.

Seaman, Augusta Huiell. Jacqueline of the carrier-pigeons; with decorations by G. Wharton Edwards. N. Y., Sturgis & Walton Co., 1910. c. 302 p. D. cl., $1.25 net.

The days of William the Silent are made real in this historic romance. The sufferings of the half-starved townspeople before the besieging Spaniards were driven from their gates, the breaking of the dikes, the sailing of the great Dutch warships over the flooded meadows are all impressively depicted. Some characteristic pictures by the artist who knows Holland so well add to the value of a good story.

Smith, Laura Rountree. The Roly Poly book. Chic., A. Flanagan Co., [1910.] c. 158 p. il. S. cl., 35 c.

Tells the adventures of the very round Roly-Poly family. The print is large and the words not too hard so that little people may read it for themselves.

Smith, Mrs. Mary Chapin. Earth songs: [poems.] Bost., Richard G. Badger, 1910. c. 125 p. D. bds., $1.25.

Smith, Sophie Shilleto. Dean Swift; with 16 illustrations. N. Y., Putnam, 1910. 11+340 p. O. cl., $3.50 net.

The writer gives a sympathetic picture of Swift, whom she considers a man born a century before the world was ready for him, one of the greatest geniuses of all time. She presents him as a man of like passion with ourselves, of a like longing for affection, of a like sensitiveness to pain or injury. He was always on the side of truth and right, sometimes mistaken in his methods of reform. The story of "Stella" and "Vanessa" is told in a thoughtful psychologic dissertation.

Sorley, W. Ritchie. The interpretation of evolution; from the Proceedings of the British Academy. v. 4. [N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,)] 1910.] 32 p. O. pap., 60 c.

An address read November 24, 1909, fifty years from the day that Darwin's "Origin of species" was published; a book which turned men's minds upside down as no other book has done since the discoveries of Copernicus. States clearly the studies of the scientists of his day on the new theories of Darwin.

Spears, J. Randolph. The story of the American merchant marine. N. Y., Macmillan, 1910. c. 7+340 p. pls. D. (Stories from American history ser.) cl., $1.50 net.

By the author of "Story of New England whalers," etc. Shipping in America developed very early. The spirit of adventure and resourcefulness which animated the colonists found a welcome outlet in the hazardous life of the sea. To the natural perils was added the zest of evading the laws, frequently unjust, which led to smuggling, and even piracy. Mr. Spears tells the story of the development of the American merchant marine, the laws which were made to check it in England, and of its worldwide supremacy in the middle of the last century.

The last chapter, "During a half century of depression," discusses the decline in American shipping and the difficulties which beset its restoration.

Stockley, Cynthia. Poppy, the story of a South African girl. N. Y., Putnam, 1910. 452 p. front. D. cl., $1.35 net.
A tale of Africa, with the usual accompaniments of marital complications and temperamental failings. The heroine's life seems most unfortunate and dramatic from its sad childhood to its end. It seems impossible that a double divorce and remarriage could bring peace, and the author brings her book to a close leaving the reader with pity for the untold future.

Suess, Eduard. The face of the earth (Das Antlitz der Erde); tr. by Hertha B. C. Sollas under the direction of W. J. Sollas. v. 4. [N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,)] 1909, [1910.] 8+673 p. maps, O. cl., $7.75.

H. Johnston; with 45 il. and a map. Phil., Lippincott, 1910. 359 p. O. cl., $3.50 net.

Author was for 26 years Senior Resident Magistrate of Nyasaland Protectorate and worked efficiently to destroy the Arab slave trade around the Great Lakes. Travel, sports and thrilling adventures made these years livable, and these he thrillingly describes. Describes East Africa just when Livingstone heard its cry for missionaries and before the tourist had trodden it, leaving it like all other lands to which he brings inventions and improvements.

Taylor, Ida Ashworth. Christina of Sweden; with numerous portraits. N. Y., Appleton, 1910. 15+336 p. O. cl., $4 special net.

By the author of "Lady Jane Grey and her times," "Queen Hortense and her friends," etc. This biography has for a background the political history of Europe from 1625 to 1689. Christina's succession to the throne of Gustavus Adolphus, her struggles in that perilous age to maintain her position, her abdication, her travels in France, and residence in Italy, her quarrels with the Pope—all make interesting reading not only for the light that they shed upon Christina's peculiar individuality, but because of the glimpses of the numerous famous persons with whom she came in contact and whose lives she influenced to a greater or less degree. Index.

Taylor, Mary Imlay. Caleb Trench; with a front. by Emlen McConnell. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1910. c. 300 p. D. cl., $1.50.

By the author of "The reaping," "The impersonator," etc. A young Northerner, who in spite of Quaker ancestry has fighting blood in his veins, goes South and there takes up the cause of reform against class prejudice and political corruption. The girl he falls in love with comes of a proud old family, one member of which opposes Trench at every turn. The tale is dramatic and vividly depicts the struggle, both political and social, which the hero has to go through before he triumphs.

Thackeray, W: Makepeace. The history of Henry Esmond; ed., with introd. and notes, by T. C. Snow and W: Snow; with introd. by G: Saintsbury. [N. Y., Oxford University Press, (Amer. Branch,)] 1909, [1910.] 32+600 p. D. cl., 90 c.

Thompson, W: B. Narrowing of the cotton market; tendency toward trust control of prices. [New Orleans, La., William B. Thompson, 808 Perido St., 1910.] 12 p. O. pap., gratis.

Mr. Thompson, president of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, wrote this article for the "Annual Financial Review" of the New York Times, January, 1909. The argument of the article leads up to the important conclusion that present conditions made possible, probable and almost inevitable the control of the price of cotton by combination of manufacturers against the producer.

Tozier, Josephine. Susan in Sicily; her adventures and those of her friends during their travels and sojourns in the Garden of the Mediterranean. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1910. c. 10+337 p. pls. D. (Little, pilgrimages ser.) cl., $2, boxed.

A sprightly volume, part fiction and part travel, told in the letters of a vivacious American girl, travelling through the land of the Sicilian, to her sister Betty at home. The work is realistic yet authentic, and describes the dark-haired Sicilians, their customs, the Sicilian towns and landmarks—in fact everything interesting to the American girl in the "Garden of the Mediterranean," and there is hardly a site or fact worth noting which escape the quick "Yankee" eye of Susan. The book also contains an interesting account of the late earthquake described by an Italian Countess, one of Susan's most agreeable hostesses.

Tucker, W: Jewett. Personal power; counsels to college men. Bost., Houghton Mifflin Co., 1910. c. 12+284 p. O. cl., $1.50 net.

Believing that the college stands for the quickening of personal power, Dr. Tucker, while president of Dartmouth College, delivered to the students the addresses contained in this volume, looking toward this quickening. Contents: Provisional self-government; The estimation of power; Wisdom the principal thing; The unearned increment in modern life; Professional values; The distribution of personal power; A man's soul and the world; The capacity for the true; The morally well-bred man; Moral maturity; The moral training of the college man, etc.

Turnour, Jules. The autobiography of a clown; as told to I: F: Marcossou. N. Y., Moffat, Yard & Co., 1910. c. '09. 12+102 p. il. D. cl., **$1 net.

Jules Turnour is a real clown in a real circus. He has been with the Ringling Brothers since 1889, and for many years before that had travelled about the world with various shows. His reminiscences give a vivid picture of life under the canvas of a circus tent among the very human, kindly people who make up the troupe. Alfred T. Ringling contributes a foreword.

Upham, Francis Bourne. Simon Peter, shepherd. N. Y., Eaton & Mains, [1910.] c. 239 p. D. cl., *75 c. net.

A young man, overtired by college work, is sent by his father to visit a country minister, "Simon Peter." The book is made up of short letters to the father from the son, transcribing simple, practical sermons preached by Simon Peter.

Upham, Francis Bourne. Thomas Coke. N. Y., Eaton & Mains, [1910.] c. 128 p. por. nar. S. (Makers of Methodism.) cl., *25 c. net.

Thomas Coke was born in Wales, educated at Oxford, and became a clergyman of the Church of England. He became interested in Methodism and was forced to give up his church. The Wesleys were his friends, and through them he became a Methodist minister. Coke was the real founder of the missions of his church. He travelled through England and Ireland, spent some time in America, and died at sea, on his way to establish missions in Ceylon.

This is an intimate and very personal account of the Emperor of Austria's life by a man whose information was gained at first hand in the exclusive circles of Vienna society. No work of fiction ever written contains a more remarkable story than that of Francis Joseph from his early youth to his venerable age at the present day; and the vicissitudes of fortune which have marked the lives of many members of the Imperial family have nowhere in works of the imagination their counterpart in dramatic quality. Foremost among them is, of course, the long and unrelieved martyrdom of the Empress Elizabeth herself, while a new and vivid account is given of the death of the Crown Prince Rudolph.

A narrative of a hunting trip during which Captain Wood had a rare opportunity to see the inhabitants and the life of this little-known portion of the earth, and he has made the most of it. The author's own idea of the valuable portion of his book is the appendix detailing his expenses and the outfit that his experience has shown is most useful in making such trips. Throughout the text also are references to this, as well as many amusing stories of the exertions of native couriers and the means of evading their impositions. The journey between Rawal Pindi and Kabulsai, 2500 miles, was made with every species of local transport, native ponies, camels, yaks, the tonga and the tarantass.

Woodrow, Nancy Manor Waddel, [Mrs. Wilson Woodrow.] The beauty; with il. by Will Grefé. Indianapolis, Ind., Bobbs-Merrill Co., [1910.] c. 322 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Workman, Mrs. Fanny Bullock and W. Hunter. Peaks and glaciers of Nun Kun; a record of pioneer exploration and mountaineering in the Punjab Himalaya; with a map and 92 illustrations. N. Y., Scribner, [imported,] 1909, [1910.] 15+204 p. O. cl., $4.50 net.

A thrilling story of pioneer exploration and mountaineering. One of the notable things recorded is that Mrs. Workman, in July, 1906, climbed to an altitude of 23,300 feet, and by this ascent not only broke her last record-ascent for women of 22,568 feet, but won a place with Dr. Workman in the small band of mountaineers who have reached a height of over 23,000 feet. The illustrations are all from photographs taken by the authors, who are already known through their books, "Ice-bound heights of Mustagh," "In the ice-world of Him alaya," etc.

The Publishers' Weekly

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT

MARCH 26, 1910.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE POSTAL SITUATION.

THE post-office appropriation bill has passed the House, with the proviso precluding house delivery except through mail boxes ruled out of order as new legislation, and will presently pass the Senate or be settled in conference without introducing new features. The postal savings bank bill has passed the Senate and will now be the subject of House Committee hearings, but as an administration measure will doubtless become law within the present session. The elaborate bill for the reorganization of the Post Office Department, originating largely from within the Department itself and framed by the Penrose Congressional Commission, has been re-introduced by Senator Carter in the Senate, the second print of the bill being the correct form, and by Chairman Weeks in the House. Several lesser postal bills have been introduced and referred to the House Committee, among them the Olcott bills, printed elsewhere in these columns, and the Lawrence "library post" bill. This is the legislative situation.

The most important of all is the reorganization bill, which provides for a permanent director of posts at $10,000 salary; seven assistant directors at $6000, to take the place of the present Assistant Postmasters-General, respectively in charge of the reorganized bureaus of Post Offices, Transportation, Mail Matter, Appointments, Finance, Accounts and Supplies; district superintendents at $5000 for fifteen to twenty geographical districts; and a Commission of Postal Appeals or court, to hear appeals as to second class matter, with three members at $5000. The bill provides also in great detail for an elaborate system of bookkeeping, which might perhaps be better left as recommendations from commission experts to the reorganized department. The essential features of this reorganization are favored alike by the Postmaster-General and the Department and by friends of postal reform, but the Department has expressed a desire to suggest some modifications, and it might better please the friends of postal progress if the bill were reduced to cover the main features and the details left as suggested to the new director of posts. It is doubtful, however desirable, whether the bill can be pressed through the House as well as through the Senate during the present session.

The reorganization bill does not deal with the vexed questions of rates, though it somewhat modifies, not for the better, the present conditions of second class privilege. Happily it does not include the complicated recommendation of the Penrose Commission that the second class rates should be  $\frac{1}{8}$  cent for 2 ounces;  $\frac{1}{4}$  cent for 4 ounces, and thereafter  $\frac{1}{2}$  cent additional for each additional 4 ounces, making a rate beginning at one cent per pound for periodicals of four or more pieces to the pound and approximating two cents per pound for periodicals of less than four pieces to the pound—a suggestion diametrically opposite to the proper postal distinction that while the cost of transportation depends on weight, the cost of handling increases with the number of pieces per pound. This was a crude attempt to have a higher rate for advertising as differentiated from reading matter which every publisher sees to be impracticable. The heavier monthly issues of the Outlook and most of the special issues of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY have, for instance, less proportion of advertising than the usual weekly issues. The proposed distinction between dailies and weeklies and monthlies, equally difficult and illogical, seems happily to have been dropped—except by politicians who seized upon it as punishment for the "muck-raking" magazines. If an increase in second class rates is carried through, it is more likely to be based on length of haul above some stated limit, although evidence that the increased revenue on the small proportion of long distance haul would compensate the Department for the extra complications involved, is yet to be brought forward; or by an additional charge where second class periodicals are delivered to specific addresses in cities or on rural free delivery routes—a specific suggestion in the Olcott bills. It is possible, and perhaps desirable, that changes in classification and rates may be deferred until the reorganization measure has put the postal administration on a business basis, and it is to be hoped that the complicated conditions and complex rates for second class matter may be so simplified that the Commission of Appeals will be unnecessary.

It will be recalled that the suggestion of the Postmaster-General, embodied also in the President's message, for the increase of second class rates, was met by a reply on behalf of the Periodical Publishers' Association, prepared by Mr. George W. Wilder, which led to considerable recrimination at the hearings before the House Committee. The answer of the Department, as summarized by the Postmaster-General, threw much new light on the controversy, and made Mr. Wilder's argument less effective than it first seemed. The summary used vigorous language in replying to Mr. Wilder's argument, and this added fuel to the flame of controversy. Mr. Wilder in turn prepared and printed a temperate answer and by this time the heat on both sides has cooled down perceptibly, and it may be said, without question, that the highest authorities at Washington are honestly desirous of meeting the periodical publishers in a friendly and fair way in the hope of reaching a satisfactory and effective conclusion.

As to the question at issue, the truth seems as usual between the extremes. The Postmaster-General explains that the short haul rate (reaching over \$1 per ton mile) applies only to  $2\frac{3}{4}$  per cent. of railway pay, and the fact is that, counting handling and terminal charges, costs are high per pound or per ton mile for short-haul, low-weight runs; cost is lowest at some point perhaps between 100 and 500 miles and then increases with long-haul distance, on a scale which could best be ascertained by a graphic curve. The Postmaster-General has also shown that a much lower and fairer proportion of equipment is charged against second class matter than Mr. Wilder assumed was charged by the Department; and Mr. Wilder, in his answer, admits to some extent the correction of his own figures as to the compensation of postmasters chargeable to second class matter. The truth about the rural free delivery deficit is that the test of its value is sociological and not commercial; and the fallacy of charging it specifically to any class of mail matter is shown by the fact that the alleged cost of 9 cents a pound could be indefinitely increased by indefinite extension of this policy.

The Railway Mail Pay Committee has added to the discussion, on behalf of the railroads, a primer, which amidst a good deal of special pleading, brings out one important fact. This is that the government paid to railroads for transportation and railway mail cars, $49,737,519, for 492,960,059 ton-mile carrying of mail and mail-bags, being slightly over 10 cents per ton-mile, or adding 50,000,000 ton-miles to cover 629,628,443 miles of free travel of post-office clerks, 542,000,000 ton-miles, being somewhat over 9 cents per ton-mile. The express charge to the public averages probably under 7 cents per ton-mile, of which the railroads get 55 per cent., or 3.85 per ton mile, much less than one-half what they are paid by the government for mails. The conditions and costs of mail and express railway service are not as diverse as the railroads argue, and this one fact suggests that railway pay requires attention quite as much as second class rates. In our view, the one business solution, whether or not some increase in second class rates and decrease in railway pay be feasible and desirable, is a general parcels post, which will increase alike the revenue to the government, the returns to the railways, and the facilities to the public, so that there need no longer be a postal deficit. It is not improbable that the postal authorities, under authorization of Congress, will be prepared to put this experimentally in operation on rural free delivery routes.

THE OLCOTT POSTAL BILLS.

THE following postal bills (H. R. 20577 and 21586) have been introduced into the House of Representatives by Congressman Olcott, of New York City, and present in succinct shape proposals covering classifications and rates, presumably more in the expectation that these bills may serve to focus discussion and action rather than meet the approval of the House Committee in their original shape. The second bill (H. R. 21586) includes the essential provision of the bill (H. R. 19396) "to establish a library post," re-introduced this session by Congressman Lawrence, of Massachusetts.

A BILL (H. R. 20577) TO CONSOLIDATE THIRD AND FOURTH CLASS MATTER AND INCREASE THE POSTAL REVENUE

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That third and fourth class mail matter be, and hereby are, consolidated as third-class matter under the limitations as to weight and dimensions and the other conditions provided for in the existing law or elsewhere in this Act, comprising matter not in the first or second class, unsealed and subject to examination, at the rate of eight cents a pound, or one cent for each two ounces, except as otherwise provided in this Act.

SEC. 2. That on third-class mail matter within a single rural free-delivery route, not involving transportation between one post-office and another, the rate shall be four cents a pound, or one cent for each four ounces, except as otherwise provided in this Act.

SEC. 3. That the minimum rate of postage shall be, on printed paper marked "Print only," or by equivalent phrase, and containing no other writing than this inscription, the address, and the name and place of sender, and request for return if not delivered, one cent for the first two ounces; and for other matter of the third class, in which other written inscription shall not be prohibited, two cents for the first four ounces; and in both cases one cent for each additional two ounces.

SEC. 4. That the Postmaster-General be, and hereby is, authorized, in his discretion, to provide for an increase in the limit of weight of third-class matter from four to eleven pounds, and within a single rural free-delivery route from four to twenty-five pounds; and that he is also authorized in such case to provide that on the excess above four pounds an additional rate of four cents a pound, or one cent for each four ounces, may be added to the eight cents a pound rate between post-offices approximately more than one thousand miles distant from each other, and an additional rate of eight cents a pound, or one cent for each two ounces, may be added to the eight cents a pound rate between post-offices approximately more than two thousand miles distant from each other; and that he is also authorized in such case to provide on the excess above four pounds within a single rural free-delivery route, a reduction of the rate to one cent a pound, making the maximum rate within a single rural free-delivery route thirty-seven cents for a maximum weight of twenty-five pounds.

This bill is in line with the suggestions of the Post Office Department, for the consolidation of third and fourth class matter, presented by successive Postmasters-General, but not presented by Postmaster-General Hitchcock, perhaps because of the desire to emphasize changes as to second class matter. It provides for half rate within rural free delivery routes, constituting a local library and parcels post, in the interest of the "full wagon" and increased revenue.

It permits written inscriptions, as on Christmas books (now prohibited by law), provided they carry a two-cent postage stamp, as suggested by the Evening Post. It gives the Postmaster-General the authority to increase the merchandise limit, at the present rates (with a lower local rate within free delivery routes), with provision for increasing the rate on parcels above four pounds for distances approximately over one thousand and over two thousand miles, presumably through a zone system utilizing state boundary lines determined perhaps by the international standard time zones or by distances between the capitals of the respective States, so that the rates may be kept simple and clear.

A BILL (H. R. 21586) TO PROVIDE FOR SECOND CLASS MATTER AND TO INCREASE THE POSTAL REVENUE.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That on and after July first, nineteen hundred and ten, second-class mail matter, including periodicals entered as prescribed by existing law and transmitted under regulations prescribed by the Postmaster-General, and books belonging to libraries registered as public libraries under such regulations as the Postmaster-General may prescribe, transmitted by or to such libraries, shall be subject to postal rates as follows: Within the county of origin one-half cent a pound, except as otherwise herein provided; beyond the county of origin one cent a pound, except as otherwise herein provided.

SEC. 2. That the Postmaster-General be, and hereby is, authorized, in his discretion, to provide that for local delivery at letter-carrier offices or on rural free-delivery routes an additional rate of one cent a pound may be added to the foregoing rates; and that the Postmaster-General be, and hereby is, authorized also to provide that an additional rate of one cent a pound may be added to the foregoing rates between post-offices approximately more than one thousand miles distant from each other, and that a further additional rate of one cent a pound may be added to the foregoing rates between post-offices approximately more than two thousand miles distant from each other.

This bill includes public library books as second class matter, thus constituting a library post without additional classification; provides for a half rate instead of free circulation for second class matter within the county of origin; and, in place of attempting the difficult distinctions between "news-papers" (in which the law now includes weeklies) and other periodicals, or between advertising and reading matter, suggests an extra rate for long hauls approximately over one thousand and over two thousand miles and an additional or alternative extra rate for delivery by carrier either in cities or on rural routes. As publishers already sort their second class mail by States, and as the law now requires additional postage on monthlies but not on weeklies delivered in the city of origin, these proposals are in line with present publishing and postal practice, and would simplify administration by abolishing the complex and sevenfold sub-classification now existing within the second class.

LABELS AND PRINTS.

REGARDING the registration of labels and prints designed to be used for articles of manufacture, the Patent Office has reaffirmed its ruling prior to the passing of the new copyright law. The statement reads:

"The author of any label or print is privileged to obtain registration therefor in the United States Patent Office, upon complying with the provisions of law, by depositing a fee of six dollars, and by filing a statement disclosing the nationality of the author, the title of the print or label, and the name of the article for which it is to be used. He shall also deposit ten copies of the actual print or label and a statement of its publication prior to date of filing.

"A label is defined as an article of intellectual production, impressed or stamped directly upon the article of manufacture, or upon a slip of paper or other material to be attached in any manner to manufactured articles, or to bottles, boxes, etc., containing them, to indicate the article of manufacture.

"A print is defined as an artistic and intellectual production designed to be used for an article of manufacture, and pertaining thereto, but not borne by it; such, for instance, as an advertisement thereof."

MOVING PICTURE ADVERTISING.

A NEW form of advertising which seems destined to influence the whole advertising field has come into existence within the last few months.

The growth of the "nickelodeon" has been phenomenal. There are now about twelve thousand moving picture theatres scattered over the United States, and in the scores in every important city and the hundreds found in minor towns and even villages throughout the country it is estimated that nearly five million people are directly reached daily.

At the St. Louis Exposition in 1904, says Printer's Ink, speaking of this new development, the National Cash Register Co., among others, ran a moving picture advertising show. Within six months, however, two of the big firms manufacturing films for renting to the theatres (all films are supplied on a weekly rental or royalty basis) have gone directly into the advertising field.

As in a magazine, people pay for entertainment and get the advertising matter thrown in; but, unlike the magazine, the patrons of a moving picture show cannot skip the advertising film. Since they must have entertainment for their money, the advertising impression of the film must be subordinated. The harvesting companies are, for instance, showing moving pictures of their machines at work in various foreign countries; or, "again, with a widespread convenience like the telephone, the moving picture men draw up a little pantomime play, making pictures in the studio. First a home is shown. A woman, alone, late at night. A burglar enters. There is no telephone. He binds and gags the woman, fills his sack with silver and departs. Emboldened by success, he enters a home further down the street. But there is a telephone here, and the occupant quickly calls into the receiver, and the play ends in a tableau, with the burglar in the hands of the police."

Whether the moving picture field will prove suitable for book advertising does not yet appear. It would be an easy matter of course to "work up films" around popular book plots. On the other hand, moving picture patrons are not, broadly speaking, a book buying class, and the service is comparatively expensive—one dollar a foot for negatives of an average length of one thousand feet, though not expensive when the field reached is considered.

"For $5000, roughly, it is possible to arrange a complete business story, photograph it, make sufficient positive copies, and put it out among the moving picture theatres all over the United States for seven months, reaching an audience estimated at between 15,000,000 and 25,000,000 persons."

HIGH PRICES FOR SHELLEY, BUNYAN, KEATS, SHAKSPERE AND DICKENS RARITIES.

PART II. of the library of the late James Park was sold at Anderson's Auction Rooms recently. It attracted buyers from as far as London and all the more important American collectors; and the total realized, $18,901, made it one of the most important sales of the season so far.

Among the most important items were: First edition, in the original blue wrapper, of Percy B. Shelley's "Adonais, an Elegy on the Death of John Keats," $740; an uncut copy of the first edition of Shelley's "Laon and Cythna," only about one dozen copies known, $132; fourth folio edition of Shakespeare, with portrait, London, 1685, $335; an autograph presentation copy from Charles Dickens of the first edition of Dombey & Son, $350; a presentation copy of Christmas Books, five volumes in one, from Dickens to Mrs. Maria Winter, the Dora of David Copperfield, with letters inserted from Dickens to her and to her husband, $320; a first edition of "Lamia, the Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems," by John Keats, 8vo, in the original boards, from the William Harris Arnold collection, $250; original manuscript of the first draft of Edgar Allan Poe's "Morella," $215; and original autograph manuscript of his "The Nucleus of Our Planet in a State of Igneous Liquefaction," $212.50.

A set of the Paris 1785-89 works of Voltaire, which belonged to Louis Bonaparte, King of Holland and brother of Napoleon Bonaparte, brought $320; an autograph manuscript and original drawings by William M. Thackeray, from the collection of the late Joseph Grego, author of "Thackerayana" and other works, $210; and the complete set, seventeen numbers, of "The Gownsmen," 8vo, Cambridge, 1830, to which Thackeray contributed, $125.

The Essays of Montaigne, Paris, 1595, sold for $151; a Greek manuscript (twelfth century) of the Gospel, on 270 leaves of vellum, $170; and the first edition of Oliver Goldsmit's "Vicar of Wakefield," in the original calf binding, $410.

Also at Anderson's during the past week was sold a rare copy of the first edition of Bunyan's "The Life and Death of Mr. Badman, Presented to the World in a Familiar Dialogue Between Mr. Wiseman and Mr. Attentive." This copy was a 12mo in the original calf binding. It was "Printed by J. A. for Nath. Ponder at the Peacock in the Poultry [sic] near the Church," London, 1680. Bunyan began work on "Mr. Badman" as soon as he had published the third edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress," and he considered it as a continuation of the latter. It brought $140.

At a recent London sale a copy of the rare first edition of "Alice in Wonderland" fetched $205. This copy, in the original red cloth, with Tenniel's illustrations, is dated 1865. Its rarity is due to the fact that for typographical reasons the earliest issue with the 1865 title-page was withdrawn from circulation.

THE WESSELS & BISSELL COMPANY.

THE NEWOLD PUBLISHING COMPANY will re-incorporate immediately as Wessels & Bissell Co., transferring all its rights and interest to the new company, which assumes all debts and obligations of the Newold Publishing Company. This change is made solely to avoid the confusion arising because the publications of the Newold Publishing Company were issued with the imprint of A. Wessels. Wessels & Bissell Co. has been appointed sole selling agents for A. Wessels Co.

The new company announces for early publication a novel of mystery by Edgar Jepson, "The Garden at 19;" a new novel by Stanley Portal Hyatt, author of "Little Brown Brother;" also, an interesting study of "Irish Song Lore and Music," by Redfern Mason. The company will also publish new editions of several volumes formerly in the list of the A. Wessels Co.

The officers of the Newold Publishing Company take this opportunity to thank their friends in the trade for the generous support and encouragement extended in the past, and assure them that the new company, in attention to its customers' interests, hopes to merit a continuance of the same.

OBITUARY.

LEVI HOWES CROWELL.

LEVI HOWES CROWELL, who died suddenly on Wednesday night, March 16, at his home in Bloomfield, N. J., was a man well known in the booktrade. Mr. Crowell was born July 12, 1854, at West Dennis, Mass. His first experience in the book business was in selling subscription publications of the Henry Bill Publishing Company, of Norwich, Conn. In 1876 he entered the employment of Thomas Y. Crowell & Company as a salesman, and continued in that capacity until December, 1906, when, upon the death of W. W. Wyman, he became office manager. As a salesman Mr. Crowell was one of the best as well as one of the most popular men in the business. His territory comprised Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Rochester, and other large cities.

Mr. Crowell was married in May, 1886, to Miss Morgan, daughter of E. S. Morgan, then a leading bookseller in Winona, Minn. He is survived by Mrs. Crowell, two daughters and a son, the last of whom has just accepted a position with the Crowell firm.

Mr. Crowell was a valuable man to his employers because of his familiarity with all details of the business, and for his strict integrity. He was a man of strong character and upright life, and was active in religious matters. At the time of his death he was an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Bloomfield. He leaves a host of friends, many of whom have already testified to their affection and to their high regard for his useful, cheerful life.

The funeral services were held on Saturday, March 19, at Mr. Crowell's late residence.

Mrs. WILLIAM MCGUIRE, a poet and short story writer, better known under her pen name of Florence Blanche Davidson, died a week ago Thursday at the New York Hospital, the victim of an attempt at suicide over a year ago. She had lived all that time with splinters of bone and fragments of a bullet in her brain. Mrs. McGuire suffered from periods of melancholia, in one of which she attempted suicide. Shortly after coming to New York from Worcester, Mass., she met and married William McGuire, then connected with a brokerage house. He deserted her soon after and she commenced writing for Smart Set and other periodicals.

TRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

PREPARATIONS for the tenth annual meeting of the American Booksellers' Association have been made by the various committees, and a programme of unusual strength and interest will be offered on the dates selected, May 10 and 11. There has been recently quite an addition to the membership, and the presence of these new members will be appreciated.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE Board of Managers of The Booksellers' League, at a meeting held March 22, elected the following officers: 1st vice-president, E. Byrne Hackett; 2d vice-president, B. W. Huebsch; secretary, A. G. Seiler; treasurer, Charles A. Burkhardt.

The new president, Edwin O. Chapman, appointed the following committees:

Entertainment.—A. Wessels, B. W. Huebsch, F. H. Revell, Jr.

Finance.—C. E. Butler, Cass Richardson, James Macdonald.

Membership.—F. D. Lacy, T. E. Schulte, C. C. Shoemaker.

Printing.—C. A. Burkhardt, James Macdonald, A. Giraldi.

Publicity.—J. A. Holden, A. G. Seiler, E. W. Hall, F. M. Crossett, R. E. Sherwood.

Reception.—J. B. Pratt, C. L. Bowman, A. G. Seiler, E. B. Hackett, W. G. Preston, R. D. Bristol.

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

THE annual banquet of the Stationers' Board of Trade at the Hotel Plaza, New York City, on Tuesday evening last, was the most successful yet held. Covers were laid for over 160, those present representing practically the entire country.

The speakers follow, Henry C. Bainbridge president, acting as toastmaster:

Hon. George B. Cortelyou, president of the Consolidated Gas Co.

Rev. Harry E. Fosdick, of Montclair, N. J. Albert H. Gleason, of Hastings & Gleason, the Association's attorneys.

Louis N. Hammerling, president of the American Association of Foreign Newspapers and chairman of the Foreign Languages Newspaper Committee of Ellis Island.

Walter L. Butler, president of the American Booksellers' Association.

Charles E. Falconer, president of the Baltimore Stationers' Association.

Frank W. Bailey, president of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers.

Charles J. McDermott, president of the Crescent Club, of Brooklyn.

Theodore L. C. Gerry, president of the New York Stationers' Association.

COMMUNICATIONS.

CHICAGO, ILL., March 18, 1910.
To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: In reference to your editorial of March 5, permit me to say that I shall sail for Europe in about two weeks for a four months' visit in Austria and Germany, and shall avail myself of the opportunity to attend the International Congress of Publishers at Amsterdam. No doubt you are aware that I attended the Copyright Conference at Washington, which framed the first rough draft of the new law, and am somewhat familiar with the copyright situation. As one of the largest owners of dramatic copyrights in America, I am vitally interested in that branch of the subject. The new copyright law, with all its defects, is a decided advance in the right direction, and it is a matter of great importance to induce the foreign governments to grant to American dramatists as great and as easily secured copyright protection as the United States gives to authors of foreign plays. The International Congress of Publishers can undoubtedly assist in securing the desired legislation and it will be well to present the matter to them.

Very truly,

CHARLES H. SERGEL.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

DR. THOMAS D. McELHENIE has an interesting statement in The Druggists' Circular for February, suggesting the manufacture of paper from weeds.

THE Department of Agriculture announces a cook book, "The Economic Value of Meats in the Home," suggested by the present high prices of food, and designed to suggest economies in food preparation and consumption.

THE desirability from a publishing standpoint of steady sellers over the "best sellers" of phenomenal but temporary popularity is strikingly illustrated in Van Dyke's "The Other Wise Man," which has just gone to press for a new edition of no less than fifty thousand copies.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY announce for publication in April two additions to their Masterpieces in Color Series—"Durer" and "Lawrence." Two more volumes will be forthcoming later in the season—probably in June—and will treat "Hogarth" and "J. F. Millet." With the addition of these five books the series will contain thirty-eight volumes. There are still two volumes to come.

THE attention of booksellers is called to the recent theft, from the library of the late Manville Fenn, of a copy of the first edition of Gray's "Elegy" and William Blake's "Poetical Sketches." See advertising pages for more complete description and reward.

ATKINSON, MENTZER & GROVER announce the following publications to be issued during the spring and early summer: "Art Literature Fifth Reader," "Applied Arts Drawing Books for First and Second Grades," and "Stearns' Laboratory Manual in Physiography."

AN enterprising clothing firm in New York has brought out a little booklet with a sliver of wood piercing the cover and these words printed thereon: "A piece of the North Pole and the absolute facts as to who first reached the frozen goal." The joke is that the inside pages of the booklet are blank.

NEXT month B. W. Huebsch will publish John Spargo's "Karl Marx: His Life and Work," and Pfeiderer's "The Development of Christianity." He has also in preparation "Daily Ways to Health," by Emily M. Bishop, author of "The Road to Seventy Years Ago," and Gwyneth K. Roe.

It is said that the Bookbinders' Board of Trade of New York City will force an appeal to the courts to overturn the recent decision of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis, admitting ordinary leather bindings at the cloth bound book, or 25 per cent. rate.

GEORGE W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY have just issued "In Old Kentucky," a story of the bluegrass and the mountains founded on Charles T. Dazey's play, to which some very important information and some dramatic scenes have been added; and "The Eddy," by Clarence L. Cullen, a novel of to-day New York life, dealing with a peculiar plot in which the daughter rescues the mother from forbidden ways.

JOHN LANE COMPANY have ready "Unmusical New York," by Herman Klein, which consists mainly of the revised and enlarged text of a lecture delivered by the author in London in October of last year under the title of "Music in America;" "Simon Bolivar," a life of the chief leader in the revolt against Spain, in Venezuela, New Granada and Peru, by F. Loraine Petre; and "The Studio Yearbook of Decorative Art for 1910."

THE KNICKERBOCKER BOOK SHOP announces the removal of their office and the balance of their stock of natural history books to Beechwoods, in the beautiful suburban town of Woodcliff Lake, N. J., where their business will be carried on in a new fireproof building especially planned for the purpose. Owing to their growing business, which has increased nearly two hundred per cent. in the last three years, they were obliged, in order to facilitate their deliveries, to move their stock all under one roof.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. have now issued "China and the Far East," the Clark University lectures, edited by George H. Blakeslee, head of the department of history at Clark University. Among the men who contributed to this symposium are Horace L. Allen, former United States Minister to China; Professor George T. Ladd, of Yale University, and Rev. E. F. Hall. The Far East is destined to play an important part in international politics, and this mature contribution to accurate knowledge about China and Japan especially should be studied earnestly by the intelligent citizens of the United States.

PROFESSOR HERMANN V. HILPRECHT announces the discovery of a clay tablet by the University of Pennsylvania's excavations at Nippur which gives part of a deluge story over a thousand years older than the Biblical sources. The similarity between the tablet record and the Biblical narrative is astonishingly close, in some cases almost word for word. This tablet, the date of which is placed at about 2100 B.C., is only a few inches square, but it is probably the most important result of Babylonian excavation so far. The tablet is incomplete, one side entirely gone, the rest partly decomposed and the characters of the text incrustated with crystals of niter, all of which has made the work of translation tedious and difficult.

THE Printing Trade News states that E. G. Lewis, the University City (Mo.) publisher, announces that a dozen large printing plants of Eastern monthly magazines will soon remove to St. Louis and be operated by a holding company. He says: "A large holding corporation will be organized to manage the publishing and advertising ends of the magazines." As a matter of fact there are not a dozen magazines in New York which have their own printing plants, and most of those which have enjoy every convenience in their own eight to eleven-story buildings which were principally built to house them, and it seems unlikely that these would part with the convenience of printing on the premises or care to risk renting the buildings profitably in case of a removal of plant. If a holding company has really been organized it is doubtful if economy would be furthered by a combination of mechanical plants.

LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY announce a strong list of fiction with which to start their publishing season of 1910. Two of the novels, "Passers-By," by Anthony Partridge, and "The Up Grade," by Wilder Goodwin, are already in the field and have found an unusually large number of readers. Other familiar authors are Anna Chapin Ray, whose recent novel is entitled "Over the Quick-sands," and Mary Imlay Taylor, whose strong Southern story is entitled "Caleb Trench." Unequaled Oppenheim has given his strong story (a tale of international intrigue) the title of "The Illustrious Prince," and it promises to merit all the praise which has formerly been lavished on this writer. Two good mystery stories are: "The Red House on Rowan Street," by Roman Doubleday, whose "Hemlock Avenue Mystery" was a favorite of last spring; and "The Snare of Circumstance," by Edith E. Buckley, which is an adroitly written and cleverly conceived detective story. "The Pursuit," by Frank Savile, is a rapidly moving story with the romantic atmosphere of Tangiers for a background; and "The Red Symbol," by John Ironside, is a tale of thrilling events which befell an English newspaperman in Russia. Mr. Savile and Mr. Ironside are English authors, newcomers to Little, Brown & Company's list. Anne Warner contributes one of her delicious, breezy satires, entitled "Just Between Themselves." "An American Baby Abroad," by Mrs. Charles N. Crewdson, is a diverting book for summer reading, and is enlivened by characteristic illustrations by R. F. Outcault, the creator of Buster Brown. "The Dominion of New Zealand," by Sir Arthur P. Douglas, is the second volume of a series dealing with the constituent portions of the British Empire. "Play Games for the Kindergarten, Playground, School-room and Gymnasium," by Emmet D. Angell, contains a large number of games especially applicable to the out-door vacation season. A new edition of Loring Underwood's "The Garden and Its Accessories" is also a timely spring book.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY have a varied line of books ready or in preparation. Leander A. Biggar, a retired business man and typical American, gives the record of his wide travels in "Around the World with a Business Man," published in four volumes. The results of his studies and keen observation are said to be most interesting. "How to Read Character in Handwriting" should prove valuable to those interested in the study and to business men in general. The author of "Toasts" and illustrator of "Crankisms," has added a new volume to the "Dwig" Series with the title "Wants," in which the misinterpretation of various ambiguous want ads. is absurdly pictured to illustrate the clipping. "Tuberculosis, a Curable and Preventable Disease," by Dr. Flick, an authority on the subject, is published in booklet form at a nominal price. In "Great Pictures as Moral Teachers," Henry E. Jackson has selected twenty of the world's greatest pictures and sculptures and interpreted what the artist tried to express. Each subject is represented by an engraving and the book is in holiday dress. The life history of one of the best-known Friends in America is told in the "Autobiography of Allen Jay." The author of "For Your Sweet Sake," James E. McGirt, draws the inspiration for his poems from the land of plantation melodies. John Trotwood Moore, author of "The 'Bishop' of Cottontown" and other works, has contributed a humorous book, "Uncle Wash: His Stories." "The Old Cotton Gin," by the same author, is a poem apostrophizing the South, with hand-lettered text and lavish decoration. "The Court of Alexander III." consists of letters written in St. Petersburg by Mrs. Lothrop, wife of the late George W. Van Ness Lothrop, Minister Plenipotentiary and Ambassador Extraordinary of the United States to the Court of Russia. Other books from this house include the "New School and Office Dictionary," the "International Bible Dictionary," by Rev. F. N. Peloubet; a new photogravure book by Joel Cook; "The Mediterranean and Its Borderlands," in two volumes; a new edition of the "Leatherstocking Tales" and "Sea Tales," by Cooper; "Fairy Tales of All Nations," by Logan Marshall, with thirty color plates; "Three Little Women's Success," by Gabrielle E. Jackson; and "Cata-mountain Camp Series," in two volumes, by E. S. Ellis. The "Ragged Dick Series," by Horatio Alger, Jr., has been entirely reset.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The Dulany-Vernay Company have taken over all the lines of the old Wm. J. C. Dulany Co., and are occupying the building they had, 339-341 N. Charles St. The administration of the concern is entirely new, R. Gordon Dulany being president and James T. Vernay treasurer and general manager. Meyer & Thalheimer, a leading Baltimore stationery and printing firm, have purchased the old printing and binding factory of the W. J. C. Dulany Co. from the receivers and will operate it in connection with their own plant.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—A depository of the Presbyterian Board of Publication has been established here, with W. E. Ward as manager.

NEW YORK CITY.—About May 1 E. Steiger & Co., who, since 1878, have been located at 25 Park Place, will remove to 49 Murray Street, one street north.

NEW YORK CITY.—Atkinson, Mentzer & Grover have recently opened a New York office at 24 West 39th Street. This office will be the general editorial and sales office of the firm. Other offices are located at Boston, Chicago and Dallas, Tex.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Francis & Cole Co., now at 18 East 23d Street, will be succeeded May 1 by John Francis, who will locate at 13 West 29th Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—The following notice has been sent to the New York paper trade: "Notice is hereby given that George W. Millar retires from business and that the co-partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned under the firm name of George W. Millar & Co. has this day been dissolved by mutual consent." The change became effective March 1.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Paris Modes Co., publishers of Paris Modes and Paris Fashion Plates and manufacturers of patterns at 36 West 24th Street, have had a petition of bankruptcy filed against them by the Wynkoop-Hallenbeck-Crawford Co. It is alleged that the company is insolvent and had made preferential payments. Robert H. Elwell was appointed receiver and authorized to continue the business ten days. The company was incorporated in 1905 for $200,000, and, previous to the death of its president, William H. Hudson, in 1908, had built up a considerable business. In 1908 the company claimed assets of $70,000.

PITTSBURG, PA.—The German Book & Stationery Co. is offering a settlement with its creditors on a basis of 25 per cent.
